ACME CORP TRAVEL AND DEVICE SECURITY POLICY

Version 4.2. This policy applies to every employee and contractor of Acme Corp who travels on company business or uses a company-issued device. It replaces all earlier travel and device guidance. Questions about the policy should be sent to the People Operations team, and exceptions can only be granted in writing by the Chief Operating Officer.

TRAVEL APPROVAL. All domestic trips that include an overnight stay require approval from the traveler's direct manager before anything is booked. International travel is stricter: it requires written approval from a director at least 10 business days before departure, and travel to countries on the elevated-risk list also needs sign-off from the security team. Trips booked without the required approval are not reimbursed, even if the trip itself was necessary for the business.

BOOKING. Flights, hotels and rental cars must be booked through the approved travel agency so that the company can account for its travelers in an emergency. Economy class is required for flights shorter than six hours. For flights of six hours or longer, premium economy is permitted, and business class is permitted only when a vice president has approved it in advance. Train travel is preferred over flying for any trip under four hours by rail.

LODGING. Hotel stays are reimbursed up to $220 per night in Tier 1 cities (New York, San Francisco, London, Tokyo and Singapore) and up to $150 per night everywhere else. Taxes and mandatory resort fees are not counted toward the nightly limit. Stays longer than 14 consecutive nights should be arranged as corporate housing through the travel agency, because the nightly limits no longer apply to extended stays and the agency negotiates a monthly rate instead.

MEALS AND INCIDENTALS. Meals are reimbursed through a flat per diem of $75 per day while traveling, which covers breakfast, lunch, dinner and small incidentals such as coffee and bottled water. Alcohol is never reimbursed. On the first and last day of a trip the per diem is reduced to 75 percent, because the traveler is usually at home for one of the meals. If a client dinner is hosted, the actual cost may be claimed instead of the per diem for that day, provided the attendees are listed on the expense report.

GROUND TRANSPORT. Taxis and ride-sharing are reimbursed when public transit is unavailable or unsafe, or when the traveler carries equipment that cannot reasonably be taken on a train. Personal vehicles used for business are reimbursed at $0.67 per mile, and the traveler must record the starting and ending odometer readings. Rental cars should be the smallest class that fits the group, and the company does not reimburse the optional collision waiver because it carries its own corporate insurance.

EXPENSE REPORTS. Expense reports must be submitted within 30 days of the end of the trip through the finance portal. Every expense over $25 needs an itemized receipt, and a credit card slip alone is not accepted. Reports submitted after 60 days are returned unpaid and can only be reopened with approval from the finance director. Approved reports are paid in the next bi-weekly payroll run.

DEVICE SECURITY. Every company laptop and phone is encrypted and managed by the IT department. Employees must keep the operating system and security tools up to date and must install updates within 7 days of release. Company devices must never be left unattended in vehicles, checked luggage or hotel rooms, and they should not be connected to public wi-fi networks unless the company VPN is active. Customer data may only be stored on company-managed encrypted drives, and personal USB drives are prohibited on company devices.

LOST OR STOLEN DEVICES. A lost or stolen company laptop or phone must be reported to the security desk within 4 hours of the moment the loss is discovered, by phone or through the incident portal. Once a report is filed the security team remotely locks the device immediately and wipes it after 24 hours if it has not been recovered. A loss that is reported late may lead to disciplinary action, and the employee may be asked to cover the replacement cost of the device when negligence is established. After a theft the employee should also file a police report and send the report number to the security team.

INCIDENT REPORTING. Suspected phishing, malware infections and unauthorized access attempts must be reported to the security team through the incident portal on the same day. Employees should not try to investigate or clean up an incident on their own, because doing so can destroy evidence. The security team acknowledges every report within one hour during business hours, and critical incidents are staffed around the clock by the on-call responder.

TRAVEL EMERGENCIES. If a traveler is injured, detained or caught in a natural disaster or civil unrest, they should contact the 24-hour travel assistance line first and their manager second. The company arranges medical evacuation when it is recommended by the assistance provider, and all emergency costs are covered by corporate insurance. Travelers should save the assistance line number in their phone before departure and carry a printed copy of their itinerary.

POLICY REVIEW. This policy is reviewed every year by People Operations and the security team together. Changes take effect 30 days after they are announced by email to all employees. Employees who do not follow this policy may lose travel privileges, and repeated or deliberate violations may result in further disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.
